Teaching Experience

Introduction to the Psychology Major, Introductory Psychology, Child Psychology, Lifespan Development, Adult Development and Aging, Sex Roles, Social Development, Gender Development of Children, Psychology of Women

Research Interests

My primary research interest is in the area of gender-role development. My early research dealt with the relationship between cognitive development and gender-appropriate toy preferences. For several years after that, my research focused on the development of gender differences in the behaviors involved in interacting with and nurturing young infants and children. Currently, I am doing work on the of a measure of parent's attitudes about gender-role behavior in their children, and on parents impact on their children's gender development.
