

Abnormal Psychology - 350
Assignment #4

Your answers must be typed. Two points are possible for answering each question.

1. Describe some of the familial influences (e.g., parental characteristics, parental behaviors, and family background) that may contribute to the development of Antisocial Personality Disorder.
2. Describe what the “emotionality” of those with Antisocial Personality Disorder might be, and what areas of the brain are involved.
3. How is Conduct Disorder related to Antisocial Personality Disorder? What other disorders or physical conditions may be associated with an increased risk of developing Antisocial Personality Disorder?
4. What is the prognosis for someone with Antisocial Personality Disorder and why? What is considered to be the most effective treatment?