

Modifying the Sidebar:

getting rid of the profile and adding text and images of your own to the sidebar

<!-- Begin #profile-container -->
<BloggerMemberProfile$>
<!-- End #profile -->

To get rid of the “Profile” in Blogger, scroll down to near the end of the code where you will see this:

<!-- Begin #profile-container -->

<BloggerMemberProfile$>

<!-- End #profile -->

Delete all three lines.

If you want to add a short message at the end of the sidebar....

Near the bottom of the code, you will see this:

<!--
This is a paragraph of text that could go in the sidebar.
-->

Get rid of the <!-- and the --> and type what ever you want over the text between the remaining brackets.

If you would like to add some text of your own at the top of the sidebar, such as a short statement of philosophy or motto for the blog, you can do that by inserting some code like this right here:

IPFW rocks!

If you want to add an image above the text you just added, simply type in this code as the next line (change the URL to the URL of your choice of image) :
